o o o o o o o o o SALUTE o o o o o o o o o

The Fiftieth Anniversary or Jubilee is, as the name implies, a time, of jubilation and rejoicing. But our joy is not only for the durability of a building or a name. A school is not merely a thing of glass and bricks and mortar; it is above all else a thing of people. We herewith salute the citizens, administrators, faculty and students who - past and present - have given of themselves to the making of McKinley Vocational High School and the bridging of this happy span of years.

The Board of Education, Buffalo, New York

Mr. Paschal C. Rubino

Mrs. Joseph A. Starosciak

Dr. Joseph Manch, Superintendent of Schools

Mr. Peter Gust Economou

Mr. Samuel C. Markel

Mr. Joseph E. Murphy

. . . Our Alma Mater . . .

The fiftieth year! This is a milestone of the significance in life of any individual or institution—a time for looking back, taking stock, and then... looking ahead.

In the case of McKinley Vocational High School, we may well go through this process with pride, satisfaction, and confidence. We are proud of this school's long and successful record of service to the business and industrial life of this community. We are satisfied that McKinley at this time is an important and vital part of our growing industrial potential; and we are confident that it will continue to serve us all well in the future in preparing thousands of our youth, to take their proper place as competent, well-trained citizens.

It is particularly significant and gratifying that in this golden anniversary year we have achieved approval for a new and improved building to house the McKinley Vocational program. May this be an omen for successful service for the next fifty years!

In all of this, let us acknowledge the debt we owe to all the individuals — dedicated teachers and administrators, Board of Education members, civic officials, friends from industry, and many thousands of graduates — all of whom have played important roles in the glorious history of this school.

I offer my best wishes to all who will be responsible for guiding the course of McKinley Vocational High School in the important and vital years ahead.

Joseph Manch
Superintendent of Schools

I appreciate greatly the privilege of being permitted through this page to greet and congratulate everyone who has been connected with the success of McKinley Vocational High School during its first fifty years. Not until some occasion like this anniversary comes along do we usually take the time to review the accomplishments of a great school like McKinley. When we look at McKinley's record in this light, we are inspired and made proud by the rich contributions which have come to our citizens, our community and our Nation because of the fifty years of its history. We cannot measure adequately the full effect of all these contributions, but they are so impressive that we are at once reminded of the debt we owe to the great teachers and leaders whose vision resulted in the establishment of this outstanding school and to the leaders, teachers and students who have made its contributions possible throughout these years.

As McKinley stands on the threshold of its second half century of continued service to our Community, may I offer my hearty congratulations for past achievements and very best wishes for what is sure to be another great fifty years for McKinley.

Gerald B. Leighbody, Deputy
Superintendent of Schools

Dr. Joseph R. Strobel

Assistant Commissioner for Instructional Services

Vocational Education — New York State Department of Education

Fifty years of uninterrupted service is an enviable record for any educational institute. I am well aware of the hard work and devotion of the principals and faculty throughout this period and commend, you the Board of Education and its administrative officers for the value of their services. We cannot dwell upon the past or even the present. The test is in how well we can adapt to changing conditions without loss of the values which made vocational education an integral part of the State's educational system. McKinley Vocational High School must provide a better education than was provided to any previous generation. Your energy, skill and wisdom must be directed to assist youth and adults in acquiring the understandings of peoples, forces and events and the high level of trade, technical and scientific ability our State and Nation requires. Increased diligence will strengthen the values which made McKinley Vocational High School a unique and basic American institution.

◦ ◦ ◦ MESSAGE TO THE GRADUATES ◦ ◦ ◦

Yours is a distinctive class of McKinley graduates, the class of the 50th Anniversary year 1960. Your Alma Mater has been serving successfully the education of the youth of our city for half a century. With dedication and patience, our graduates, who have gone before you, have joined their knowledge and skill in the growth of our industrial community. Many have risen to leadership in management and in the labor movement.

This is a very wonderful heritage for all McKinley men, and is one to be appreciated by everyone of us.

We urge you always to put forth your best in all your endeavors so that finally you too will add to this great heritage. We wish for you success now and always.

J. C. Deluhery

Assistant Principal

◦ ◦ ◦ MESSAGE TO THE GRADUATES ◦ ◦ ◦

As McKinley School is in the midst of celebrating its fiftieth birthday, we find many thoughts about McKinley's past, its present and its future coming to mind.

We can't help but think of the many fine staff members who did so much for boys of McKinley who have gone to their eternal reward. Names like Phil Ackley, Carl Witte, Tom Dobbins, Bill Massie and many others will long be remembered by those who were privileged to be in their classes.

We think of the wonderful students who gave up their lives in World War II. We hope the great sacrifice of those forty-four boys has not been in vain. We think also of Hughey Price who was killed a few days before the close of the Korean action.

We think of the great contribution that hundreds of our former students have made to this and other communities partly because of the excellent training secured in McKinley.

We will miss many of our present senior class. It was an honor to have Jim Sarafin as the head of the Gold Key Club as it was also a honor to work with so many fine seniors on this service club. We feel sorry for those few seniors who needlessly quit school and for those who did not do their best while in school.

We extend our best wishes to all those who have ever graduated from this school and hope that all will have a most happy and useful life.

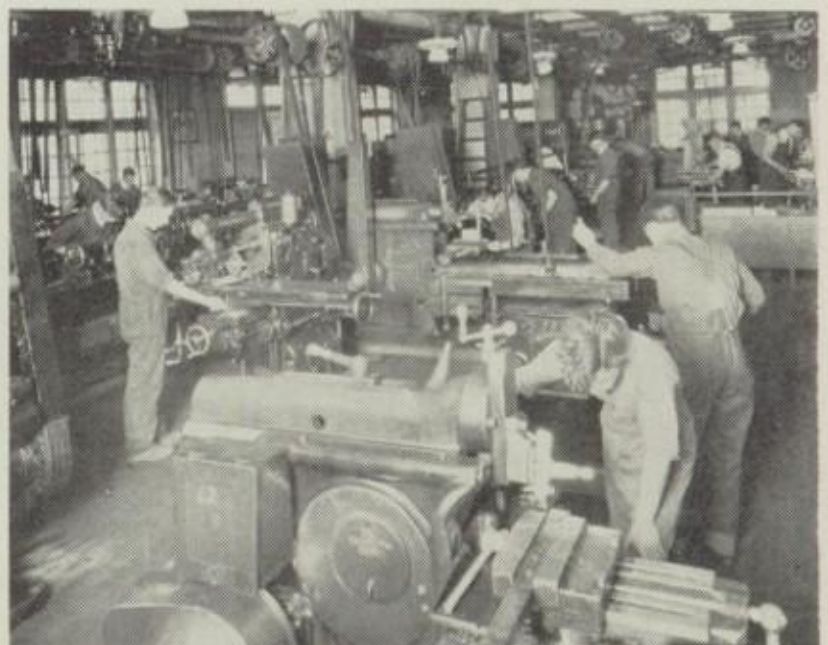

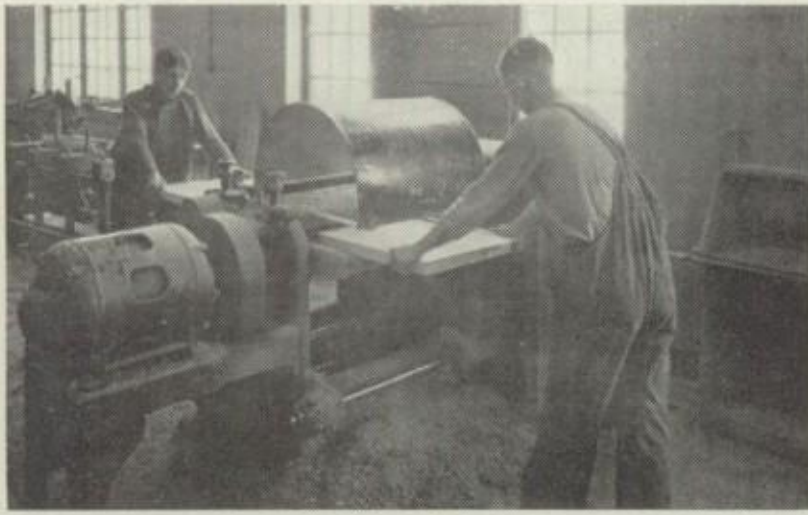

Mr. Sam F. King
Principal 1915 — 1934

Mr. Robert S. Hoole

History of McKinley Vocational High School

About the turn of the century, there was developing a growing interest in specialized education in "manual training" and technical studies throughout the country. The City of Buffalo was the first to establish (1904) a technical high school in New York State. By 1908, state laws were enacted to establish vocational schools for the teaching of the manual arts.

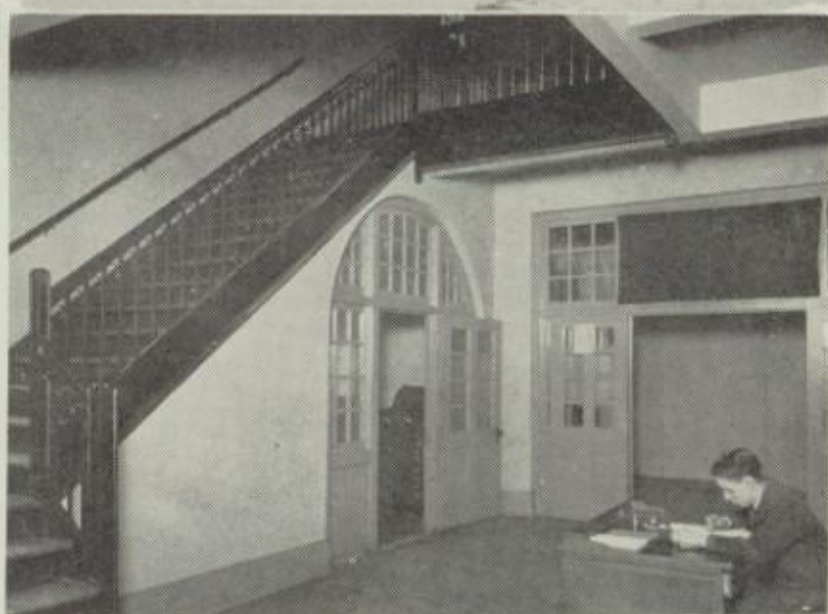

Early Days

Our first school, the Black Rock Vocational School, was opened in September, 1910, with an enrollment of about forty boys who were offered a two-year course in woodworking. Its location was at Amherst and East Streets, in what was then School 20. Mr. W. Miller headed this school, while Mr. Alvin Shepard was in charge of Grade School 20. In the next two years, new heads of the school took over successively in the persons of Mr. William J. Regan and Mr. Joseph Phillipi. In 1912, Patternmaking was added to the curriculum. The year 1915 brought Mr. Samuel F. King as principal and saw the introduction of a two-year course in Machine Shop. In the following year, 1916, Sheet Metal and Cabinet Making were introduced. In the year 1917, the national Congress enacted the Smith-Hughes Law which established minimum standards for the training in trades and related technical studies. It also provided funds to be paid annually for the support of vocational school courses. Since that time, new federal legislation has broadened the scope of vocational education and has increased the financial support for it.

Move to Present Building

In 1922, the Buffalo Orphan Asylum property on Elmwood Avenue was purchased as a new home for the school. It was at this location that the school year began in September, 1923, with a registration of about 200 boys. It happened that the new location was very near the scene of the assassination of President McKinley while he was attending the Pan-American exposition of 1901. The name of the martyred president was used for McKinley Vocational School.

History of McKinley Vocational High School

New Courses

This year of change also brought with it, the beginning of Bricklaying, Plastering, and Plumbing on the list of trades offered. Also, entrance requirements were raised so that only those who had completed the eighth grade could enroll.

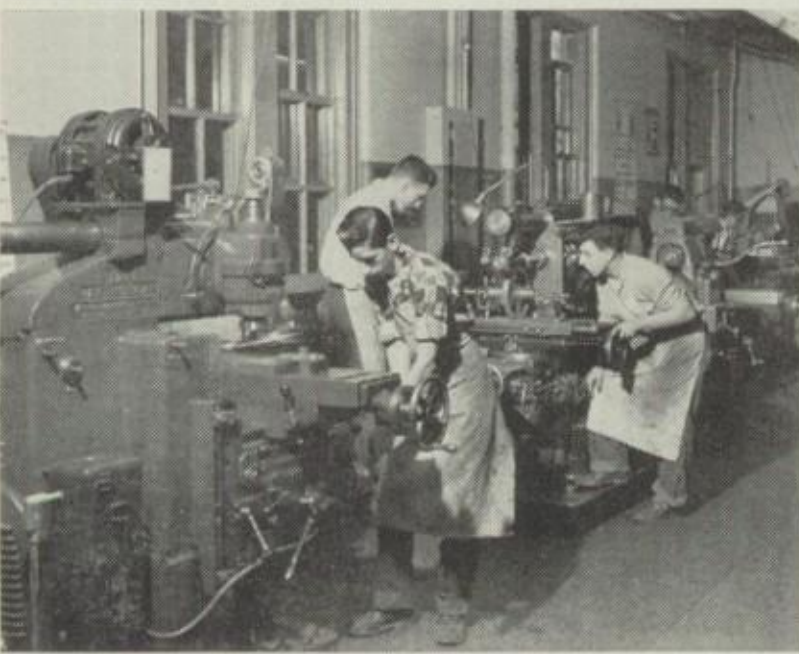

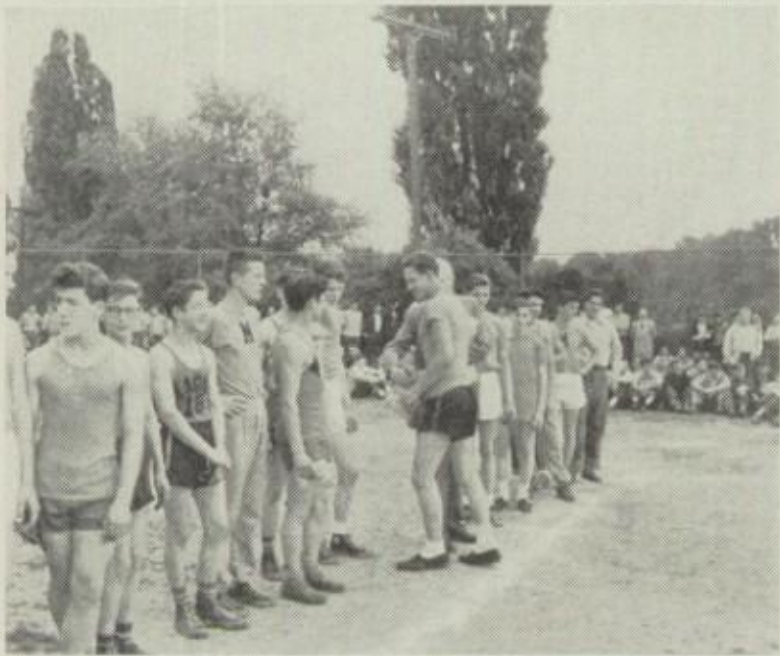

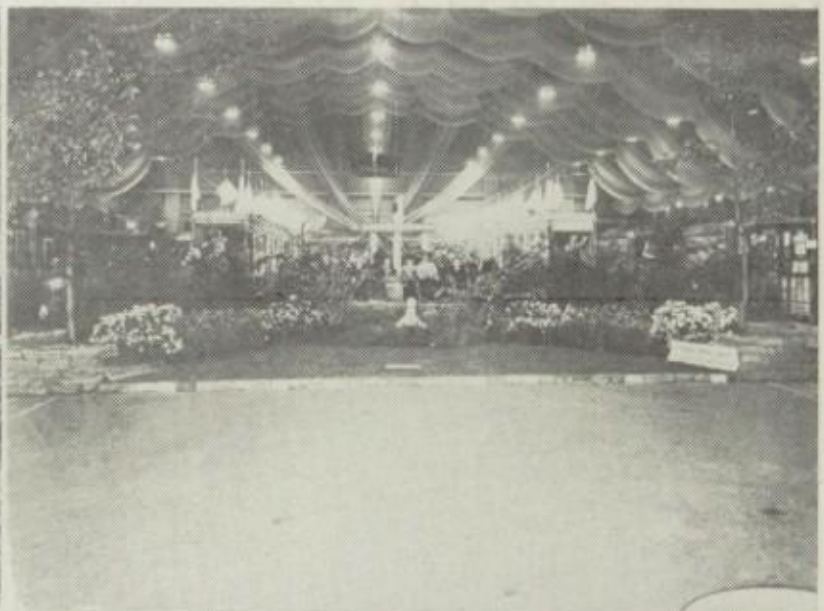

In 1924, the Cabinet Making course was abandoned and in its place the course in Carpentry was set up. In 1929, the University of the State of New York chartered the school as a two-year industrial high school. A big advancement was made in 1933, when the State chartered McKinley as a four-year industrial high school and all trade courses were expanded to four years.

A full time music trade course was begun in 1927 for students with that special talent. Besides the full-time students, there were many in the other trade courses who took instruction in playing a musical instrument. A band of about eighty pieces was developed by the music department staff to participate in the state band contest at Fredonia. This band played for the Buffalo Rotary Club and also presented a concert in the old Elmwood Music Hall to a crowded house. However, in 1929 the music course was changed in status to instrumental classes only.

Horticulture was added to the curriculum in 1934, completing the list of eight trades now being taught at McKinley.

In 1942, the Garden Center Institute for adult education in gardening, sponsored by Mrs. Edward B. Holmes and directed by Mr. Tobbio Martino, established its headquarters and official office at our school.

History of McKinley Vocational High School

New Principal

Mr. Robert S. Hoole became principal in 1935. It was during his time, in 1936, that rotation of the Freshmen in the Building Trades was begun. Four years later, in 1940, the registration reached an all-time high when 913 boys were enrolled, fairly bursting the seams of the school building.

McKinley's Part in World War II

During the years prior to and during World War II, McKinley was the scene of around-the-clock activity. The National Defense Training Program began in the summer of 1940, and eventually, besides the regular day sessions from 8:30 to 3 o'clock, class sessions were held to train workers in defense production in sessions from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m., 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., and a long session from 10:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m. Instruction was given in machine operation, sheet metal work, air-craft metal work, wood and plaster patternmaking, and drafting.

A Food Production War Training Program was also conducted at McKinley by the Garden Center.

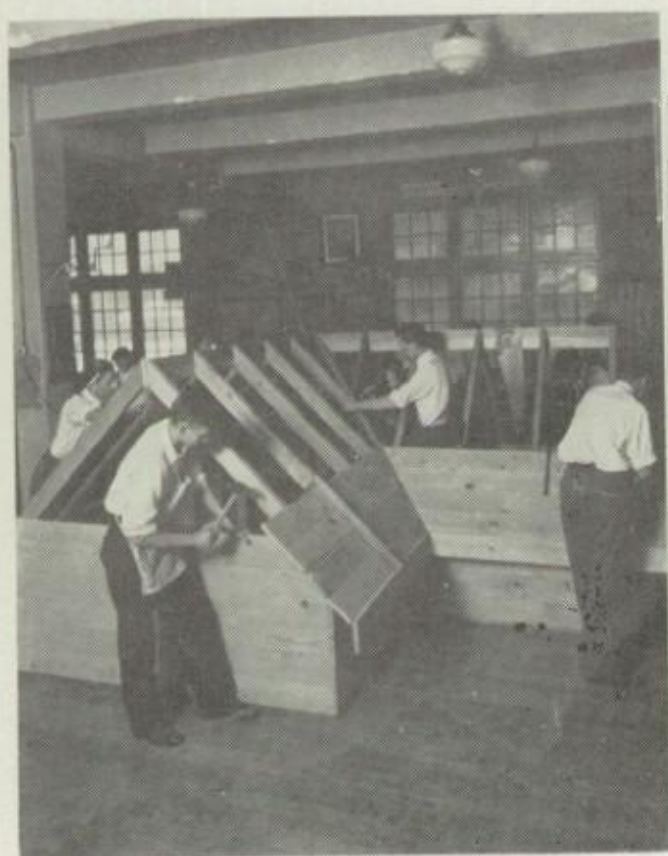

Leaders were trained to teach home owners and others to operate their own "victory gardens." Community gardens were developed in many areas in the city and in the surrounding towns. Flower shows gave way to exhibits of garden produce from the victory gardens.

Recent Years

The office of Guidance Counsellor was established in 1948. Dr. Joseph C. Deluhery was appointed to this position.

In 1953, Mr. Hoole left McKinley to undertake an assignment for the federal government and Mr. Ferd E. Kamprath was named principal.

The New York State apprenticeship law of 1945 formed the basis for the change over of the adult education classes at McKinley. Originally, our evening classes were operated for trade extension and up-grading. In the war years, the emphasis was on specialized training for the war industries. Since 1945, only men serving an apprenticeship in their chosen trades are accepted for technical and related training. Bricklayers, tile setters, carpenters, millmen, plasterers, cement finishers, plumbers, steam fitters, sprinkler fitters, sheet metal workers, structural steel workers, patternmakers, tool and die makers, painters and glaziers - all, at sometime, had classes operating at McKinley. The largest session included 510 apprentices.

The Board of Education in cooperation with the State Education Department conducted "curriculum laboratories" at McKinley in the summers of 1949 through 1957. Our teachers, and teachers from other schools, and men from industries and trades formed the staff of writers in these projects. About ninety books or monographs, each produced in hundreds of copies, on materials for instruction in vocational high school courses, were written.

Enrichment of Curriculum

In recent years, McKinley has joined with the other vocational high schools of Buffalo in scheduling classes for the better-than-average students. In these classes the teachers have been able to extend the scope of the course to provide a greater challenge to these students. Also, elective subjects in mathematics and science have been provided for those with ability and desire to extend their studies beyond the required minimum.

The Decades Ahead

By better means of guidance, it is hoped to bring into our technical vocational courses greater numbers of adequately qualified students. By persistent refining and up-grading of content of courses, McKinley Vocational High School hopes to meet the new demands of modern industry and to prepare more successfully the students entrusted to its instructors.

In Memory
Of Those Former Staff Members
And Students Who Are Not With Us
For This Jubilee

"Our little systems have their day;
They have their day and cease to be:
They are but broken lights of thee,
And thou, O Lord, art more than they.

We have but faith: we cannot know;
For knowledge is of things we see;
And yet we trust it comes from thee,
A beam in darkness: let it grow.

Let knowledge grow from more to more,
But more of reverence in us dwell;
That mind and soul, according well,
May make one music as before,

But vaster. We are fools and slight;
We mock thee when we do not fear:
But help thy foolish ones to bear;
Help thy vain worlds to bear thy light."

JUNIORS REPORTING

It is difficult for any Junior to believe that three years at McKinley have gone by so rapidly. The fact that this year's Junior Class has been so active in school affairs partly accounts for the swift passage of time.

Juniors were to be found on all the athletic teams, and their presence is a good sign for next year. All school activities relied heavily on the support of our experienced three-year men. Academic matters were not neglected as their presence on the Honor Roll will attest. The Class of '61 is now looking forward to proving what outstanding Seniors they can be.

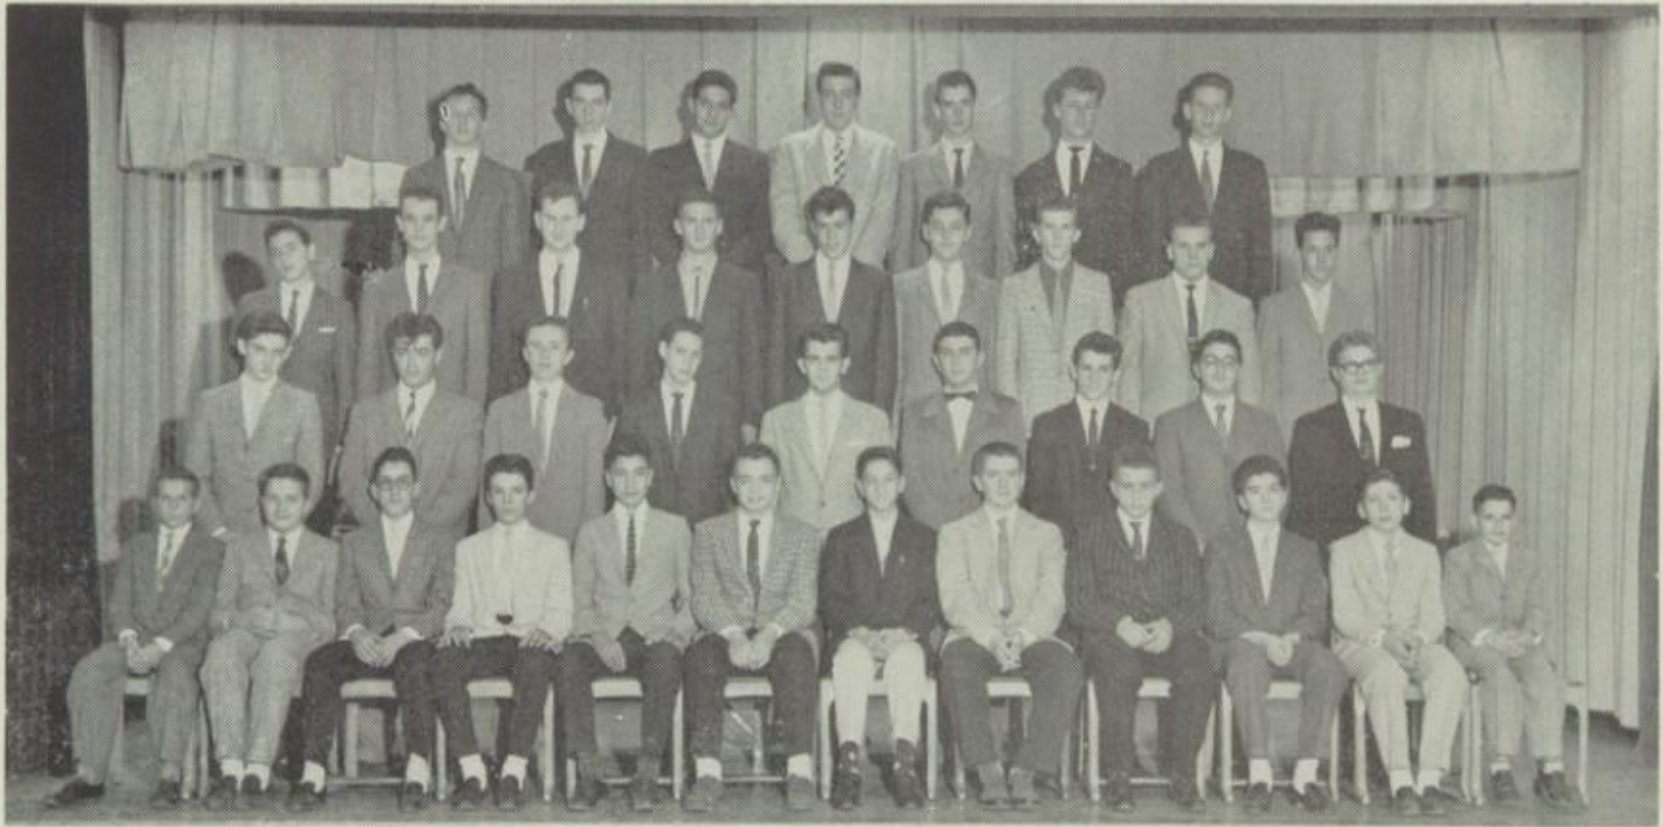

SOPHOMORES REPORTING

The half-way mark is important in any race, but it is the stretch that counts. The Sophomores have no intention of relaxing their fine efforts of the previous two years.

The years may "go fast at Oxford" but they also do so at McKinley. In the Fall of 1958, June 1960 seemed far ahead. Now it is part of the past. And they have been years of accomplishment. All our teams, all our activities, and our Honor Rolls bear witness to the Sophomore contribution. Then up anchor and away for the not-so-distant shore, June 1962 and that magic word - Graduation!

FRESHMEN REPORTING

It would be hard to find any Freshman who would admit that last fall the big front door of McKinley seemed very forbidding or that this bewildering complex of buildings and stairways could be anything but a puzzle for the next four years. How odd it should take but one year to make old-timers! But the evidence is there. Freshmen competed for places on all teams, were learning their way around in all activities, and were taking to the work of both shop and classroom with interest and eagerness. McKinley can expect much of them for the next three years.

BRICKLAYING

This year Mr. Grundon's Bricklayers engaged in a wide number of projects. The eight seniors, looking forward to actual work in the trade, attempted some of the more complicated assignments. They worked on fireplaces, barbecue pits, glass block panels, and various kinds of masonry blockwork. These experiences will prepare them for the apprenticeships they hope to begin following graduation.

The Junior Class members built a garage for this year's Open House. They also studied and built different types of panels and chimneys. Experience was provided in laying brick to a line. Crosswalks were built and a number of ornamental patterns were studied.

In their shop course, the Sophomores worked on the simpler bonds and walls. Some built various types of piers. They were given experience in the spreading of mortar and their theoretical instruction included the different types of bonds used in construction.

Since their trade makes use of a wide variety of materials such as brick, structural clay, tile, terra cotta, ceramic veneer, cinder and glass brick, all the students attempt to familiarize themselves with them and their use in the most extensive range of construction situations. Since this knowledge must be related to plans, a detailed knowledge of architectural blueprints is required.

CARPENTRY

Mr. Rousselle's Carpentry Seniors, this year, worked on a number of constructions such as the model room built by Pete DiLauro, Pete Adamczak, and John Bachman for McKinley's exhibit for the vocational school display at the Erie County Bank. The bricklayers, plumbers, and sheet metal workers cooperated in preparing this room for exhibition. Charles Gandolfo and Richard Marotto constructed a tool shed. A living room, for which the bricklayers provided the fireplace, was also constructed.

Mr. Fritzinger's Seniors constructed a model kitchen and made a number of drawing tables. His Junior Class concentrated on roof and platform construction and built a model home. In addition, they made wheelbarrows for the kindergartens of various elementary schools. Another project taught them the fundamentals of building stairways.

Mr. Rousselle's sophomores utilized an acquisition of lumber from the U. S. Navy to construct a wall, a roof and a platform.

Mr. Pfuelb's Freshmen worked on general carpentry projects to acquire the fundamentals of the trade and necessary safety rules. More ambitious projects were ruled out by the shortness of the six-week course in their rotating schedule.

HORTICULTURE

The horticulture department at McKinley is divided into two groups which rotate between landscaping and greenhouse.

In the Greenhouse, the boys learn how to grow plants. Under Mr. Martino's supervision, the boys grow geraniums, tulips, annuals, lilies, and many other plants. Each Senior is in charge of a greenhouse. He usually has a Junior to help him and it is his job to teach the Juniors and Sophomores about growing. The Sophomores do much of the easy work while the Freshmen learn the names of different plants. Mr. Martino also has the Freshmen do many of the simple jobs around the greenhouses. All the plants used in the gardens around school are grown in the greenhouses.

The landscaping department maintains the school grounds and gardens. The boys learn the proper way to dig out shrubs, cut down trees and make new lawns. In addition, they learn how to prune trees and shrubs, trim hedges, and learn how to clean and plant beds. Indoors, the boys learn to identify leaves by their shape and they also learn some landscape architecture. In the Spring, Mr. Losel has his class plant the rose garden that is next to the school.

This year the seniors in landscaping prepared an exhibit, with Mr. Losel's help, to be shown at various places in the area. It is a miniature house that is fully landscaped down to the last detail.

During the summer vacation, all students come in for two weeks to take care of the greenhouses and the gardens. In this period they also learn the summer work necessary in the greenhouses.

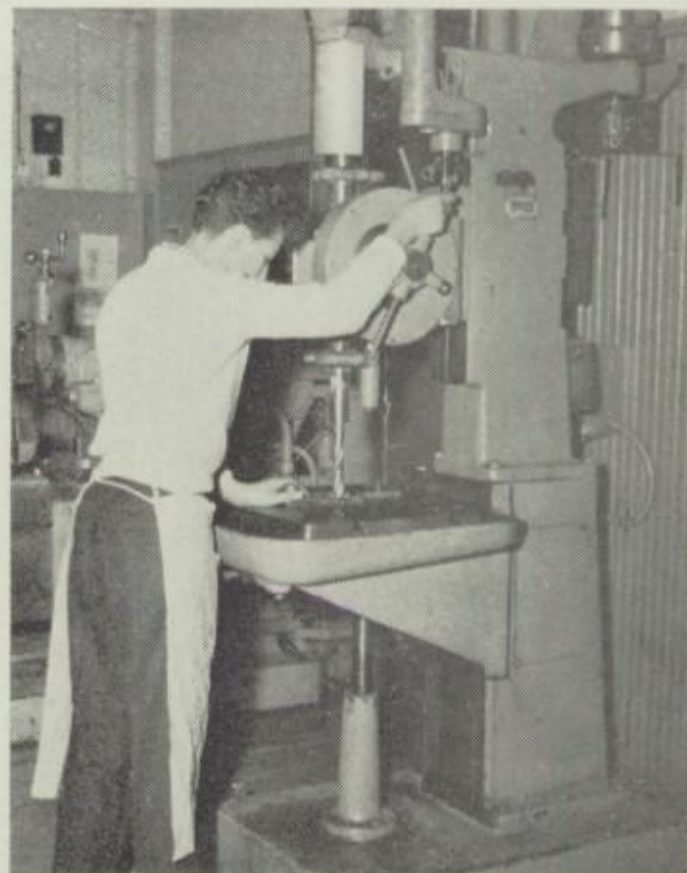

MACHINE SHOP

Almost all the students entering McKinley Vocational High School are placed in an exploratory program for the first year. In this program, they rotate through and gain experience in branches of building trades and machine shop trades. At the end of the first year, they make their choices as to their desired courses.

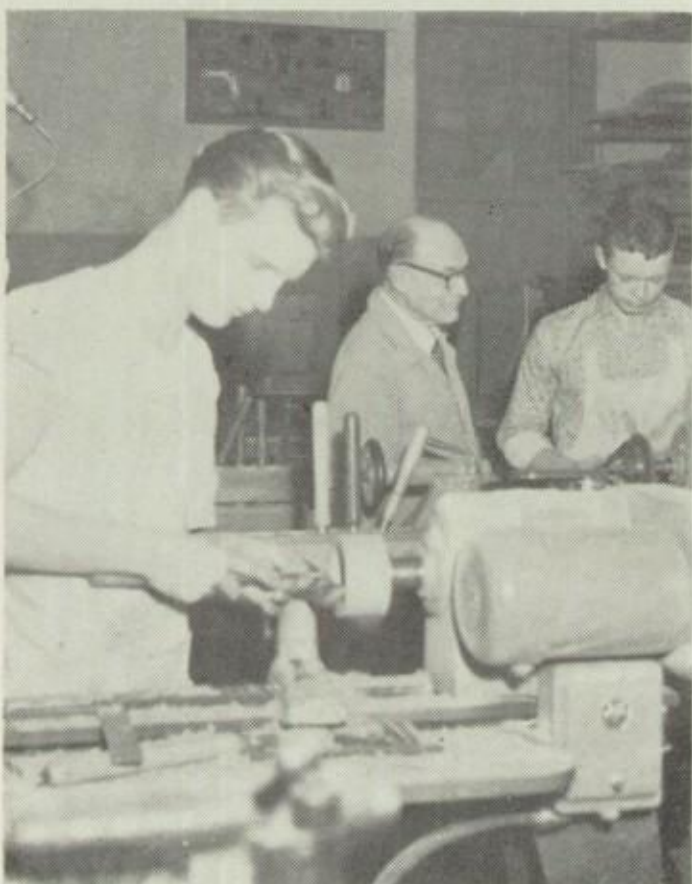

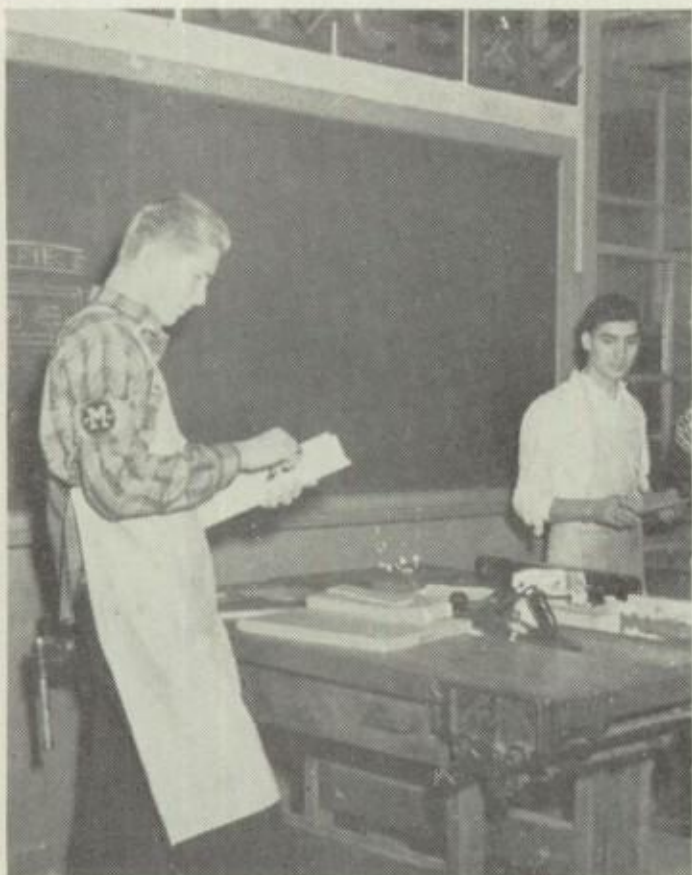

If a student chooses the machine course at the end of the first year, his shop work time in the second year is spent mostly in the evaluation of different machines and their different characteristic working apparatus. Beside mastery of the machines in a shop, a student must also become acquainted with the different tools he has to use in his trade. He must know what kinds of tools to use for specific jobs and how to use them correctly.

By the time a student enters his third year in machine shop, he is accustomed to on the job training. He should be well acquainted by this time with the operation of lathes, vertical and horizontal milling machines, shapers, drill presses and various types of grinders along with contour saws. He is taught tapering and external and internal threading.

In his fourth year the student learns how to use the planer and various jig borers. He also learns to use precision testing and measuring devices and to make hardness tests on steel.

PATTERNMAKING

Patternmaking as a trade is defined as the forming of wood and metal into patterns which are molded in sand into castings. The castings are then machined and become parts of brackets, presses and machine tools. This is a trade which requires a great deal of precision on the worker's part. To assist the Mc-Kinley student attain this accuracy, he is taught basic mathematics and trade drawing in addition to his shop practice.

Mr. Clabeau supervises the shop work and teaches the boys the working fundamentals of pattern-making. Some of the projects include layouts, cores, core boxes, pattern structures, the use of tools and machines, and, to a limited degree, practice in foundry work. From the Freshman year, where one learns mainly how to handle the different hand tools, the student progresses to the Senior year where he can make use of all tools and machines in making his patterns. A Senior is capable of turning out such jobs as the Bearing Housing, Valve Bearings, Grinder Housings, Gear Blocks and Air Plane Fittings.

Although mass production has reduced the amount of hand work necessary, the Patternmaker must still do an immense amount. He will always be in demand in a machine age as long as the machines have to be made. Graduates, now working in this trade, realize the importance of the hand skills they acquired so laboriously during their shop training.

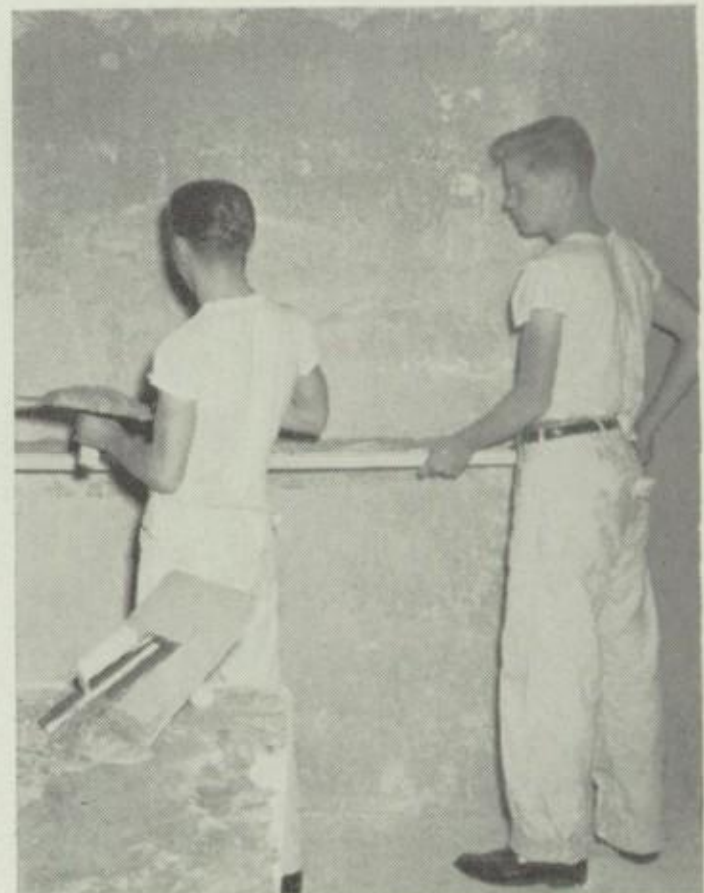

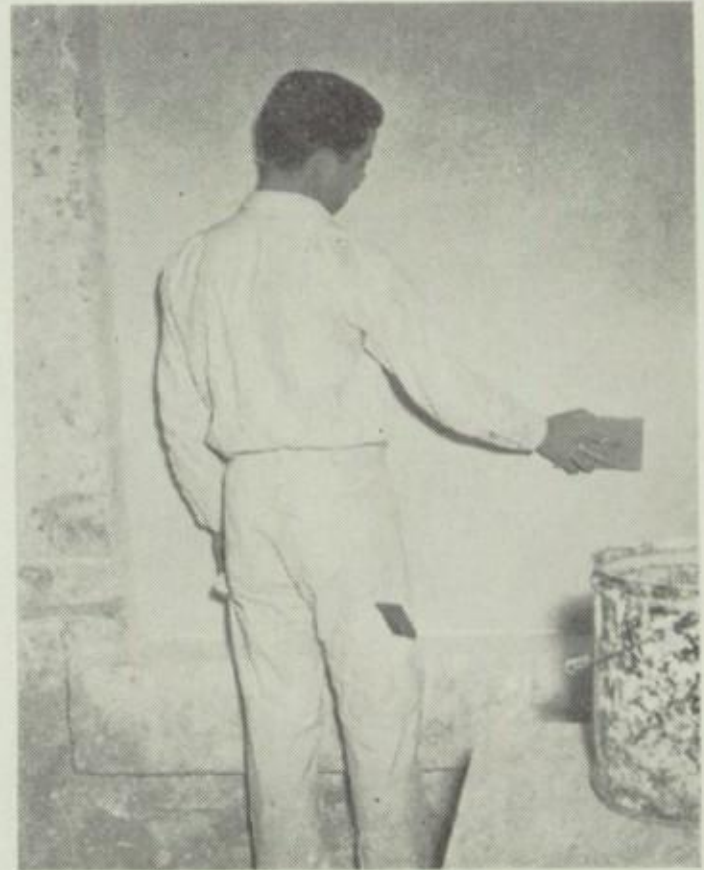

PLASTERING

The student in the Plastering Shop is reassured by the knowledge that not only is his trade a very old one but, today, one of the most financially rewarding. Mr. Smith tries to make sure that the boys acquire a sound knowledge of all trade fundamentals such as three coat work, patching, designing, making templates and running molds.

In the beginning of the year, the boys are divided into crews and assigned to one of the six practice rooms. The crews are composed of students of different class levels and varying degrees of experience. The rooms represent the range of shapes and forms of construction that a plasterer might encounter in his work experience. The boys plan what will be required in each room and, under the teacher's supervision, go about constructing it. Plastering the walls of these rooms from the lath out through the necessary coats, providing the required cornices and forming the desired decorative work is essential experience for the would-be finished tradesman.

Students are also given training in such various kinds of molds as lamps, flower pots, lawn pieces and religious statues.

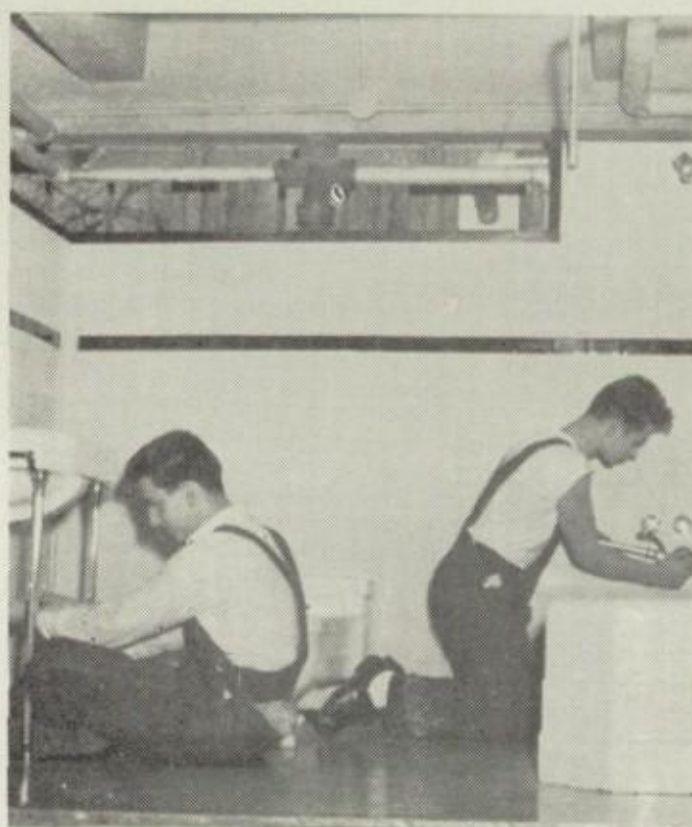

PLUMBING

Although plumbing is a very old trade, it is now entering a period where demand for its services is constantly expanding. The trade operations may be divided into three categories: industrial, commercial, and residential. The skills required for one are utilized in both the others.

At the termination of his course at McKinley a student should possess a background adequate for a successful start as an apprentice.

Mr. Metz's Sophomores endeavor to master fundamentals and the use of hand tools. They also learn how to put different pipe offsets together and familiarize themselves with various pipe sizes and fittings.

Under Mr. D'Arcangelo's supervision, Juniors and Seniors learn how to lay out and assemble a complete bath room. They also learn how to wipe lead pipe and joints with wiping solder. In addition, they have some experience with welding and silver soldering. This year's Seniors were the first class to finish an entire commercial toilet room in copper water pipe. The Juniors installed a new type wall hung water closet.

Any boy wishing to put forth the necessary effort will find this course an excellent opportunity.

SHEET METAL

Modern construction development and changes both, in homes and industries, in recent years have greatly extended the uses of sheet metal. The consequence of this increased demand has been a need for additional sheet metal workers.

The course at McKinley aims at training interested students to fill the jobs created by this opportunity. Here a boy becomes familiar with the skills pertaining to the installation of ventilating, gravity and forced air heating, air-conditioning and direct collecting systems. He must master all phases of the job from drawing, through pattern, to finished product. He learns the various methods of making patterns, parallel line development, radial line development and triangulation and the procedures to follow in layouts. A sheet metal worker must also have some knowledge of such related skills as welding and brazing.

Developments in the use of plastics have extended the sheet metal worker's field. Plastic materials are purchased in sheets and the procedures used are identical with those used with metals. By the use of heat, the cut sheets can be formed into shapes useful for various ornamental purposes.

SCIENCE

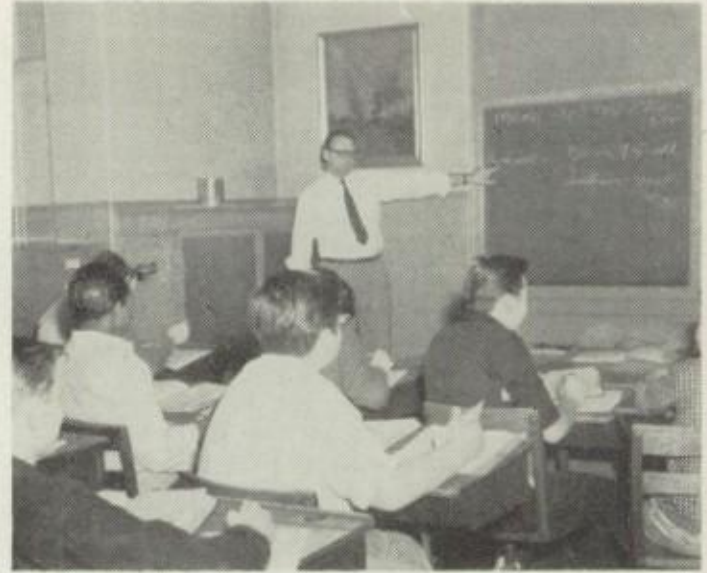

A student in any one of the trade courses taught at McKinley cannot long remain unaware of the importance of the basic scientific principles. The application of these principles to the problems of everyday life is the key to any trade. Our science courses seek to provide the students with this practical knowledge. This knowledge not only contributes to the worker's efficiency but helps insure this safety.

Concern with the practical does not imply a neglect of the significance of abstract science in our modern world. A course in physics is offered for senior students. The scientific training offered by our school should prove useful to our boys whether in their trades, in advanced education or in the military service.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics and its application to the problems of his trade are important to every prospective tradesman. For that reason, most courses of study at McKinley require several years of this subject. While the courses stress the fundamentals, special emphasis is placed on the relation of the classroom work to the work done in the shops. Material computations, cost estimates and calculations necessary before beginning a project are taught in these courses. All students are aware of the important relation of this subject to their trade work.

DRAWING

Planning is the necessary preliminary to building. Drawings are necessary to all building plans. A good craftsman must be able not only to make them but to read and understand them. Drawings aid not only the actual making of a project but in the prior estimates of materials, costs and size. All McKinley students are given experience in making and reading drawings. This helps them not only in visualizing a finished job, but in explaining that job to others.

ENGLISH

Anybody who works with others requires a knowledge of our common language. Such a basic skill enables him to express his own ideas correctly and clearly and to understand the ideas other men communicate to him. Lack of clarity and correctness in speech or writing causes endless confusion everywhere. Moreover, language is the one tool everybody uses constantly and in almost every situation. Information necessary to good citizenship and entertainment to be derived from books and magazines also depend on a mastery of words. The English course at McKinley aims to satisfy these needs.

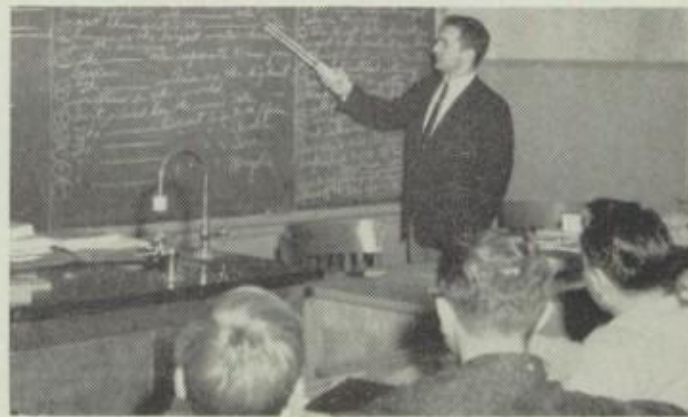

GUIDANCE

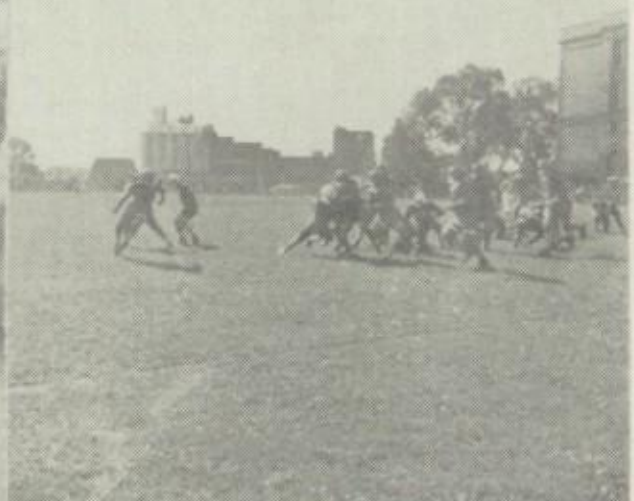

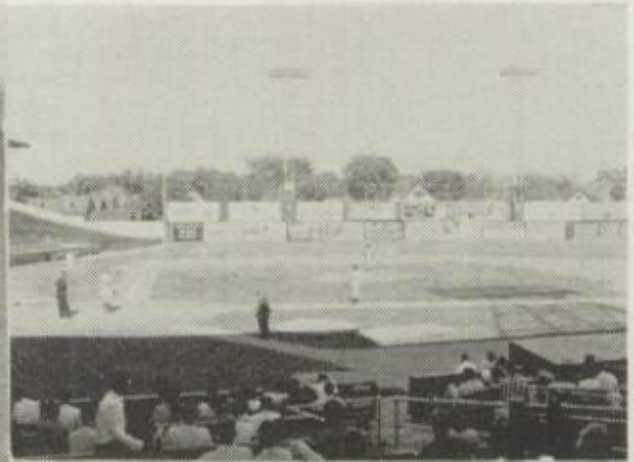

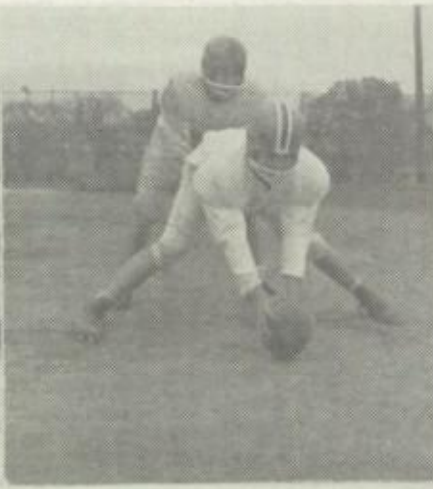

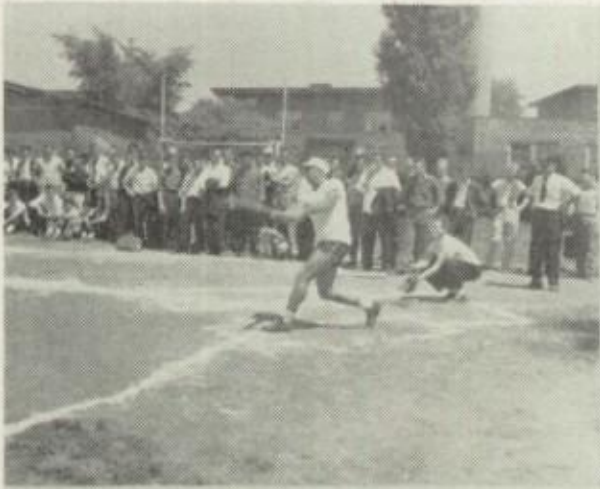

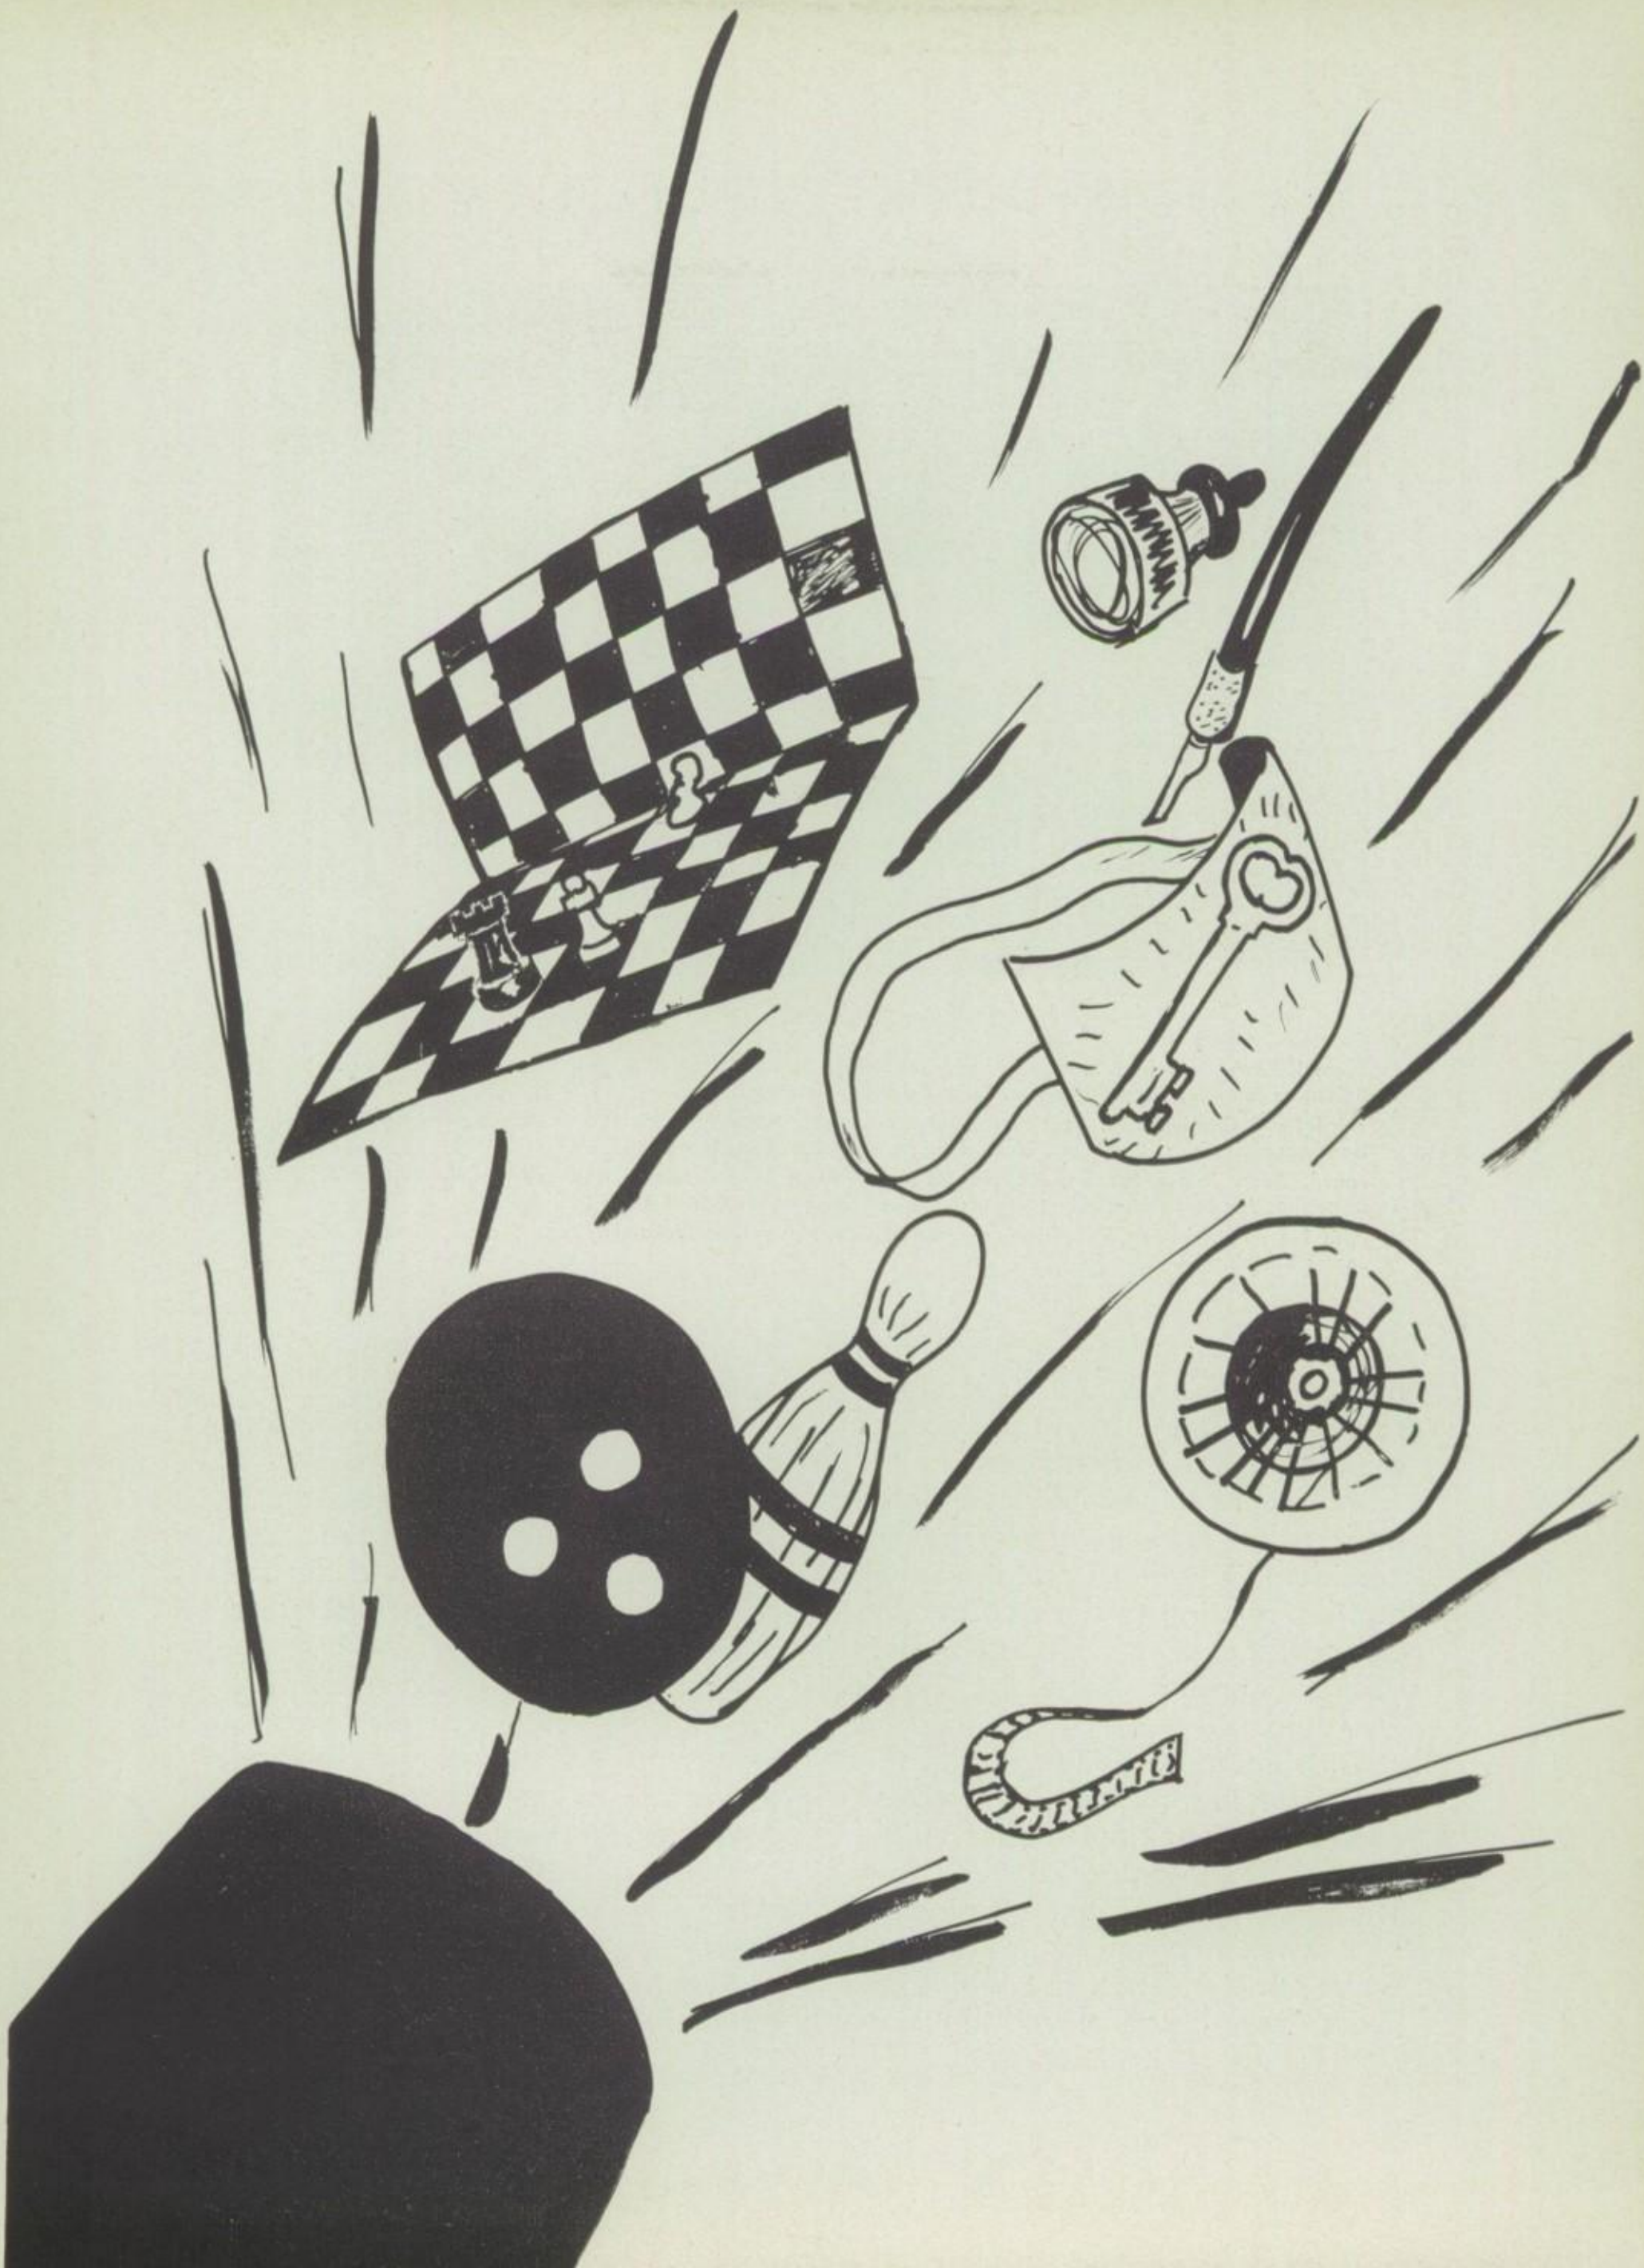

The Guidance Department coordinates such pupil personnel services as those of the nurse, doctor, psychologist, attendance officer and visiting teacher. As Counselor, Mr. Russell Mancuso, assists the pupil in knowing and making use of his own abilities. Such procedures as cumulative records, testing, counseling, interviewing, assembling and communicating information are used to this end. Close coordination is maintained with faculty members to increase the effectiveness of these techniques. Pre-registration programs get the student off to a good start. Post high school plans are carefully made before graduation. Graduates are also given assistance in placement.

CITIZENSHIP

In a world of continuing crises both in domestic and foreign affairs, no citizen can have too deep an appreciation of the elements that produce them. To provide this knowledge, Freshmen at McKinley study a course entitled Economic World which combines both geography and economics. In either the Sophomore or Junior year, students study World History. Seniors are given a year's instruction in American History. All these courses direct the graduate toward effective citizenship. He will be well aware of both his duties and his rights and be equipped with a feeling of responsibility for their wise and intelligent exercise.

Fifth Row: Patrick Gott, Ronald Reese, Walter Gregor, Michael Piekarski, John Cholnik, Thomas Baxter, James Brzezinski

This organization had one of the most successful years in its long history at McKinley. Many projects of benefit to the students and to the school, were successfully completed under the capable leadership of President Ronald Ziccardi. In all matters relating to the good of the Council, he was assisted by this year's energetic secretary, Frank Sperduto.

Outstanding activities during this past year were several interesting and educational assemblies, highlighted by the one on Better Dress. This program was the culmination of a week's concerted drive to improve our standards. The Junior Red Cross Assembly displayed the work of that organization and the contribution made by our school.

Two social events were sponsored by the Council. The first was a skating party held in the autumn of 1959. Attendance at it was the greatest in many years and the receipts were allocated to the year book.

An innovation this year, and a first for Buffalo High Schools, was a Skate-Hop. Attendance was beyond the fondest hopes, and the party was most enjoyable.

All routine activities were conducted with efficiency and a high regard for the responsibility which characterizes a student activity devoted to school service.

Second Row: John Ramirez, Frank Sperduto, Vincent Aquino, Sam Mecca, Donald Bova, Robert Warren, Michael Piekarski, Daniel Suffoletta, Carlton Maxwell

With the fine cooperation of the McKinley student body this year's Gold Key Club has been able to keep the cafeteria in as fine a condition as it has ever been kept in its history. President Jim Sarafin's captains and workers were loyal to their task of keeping the cafeteria always ready to receive visitors.

When one group of educators met for lunch right after the lunch period for students was over, it was hard to believe that the floor had not been swept.

The Gold Key Club is essentially a service type of organization. For working during one year the student receives a certificate, for two years a major letter. Officers and captains receive pins on the night of graduation. Only seniors can be officers or captains.

Faculty supervisors this year are Mr. James King, Mr. Anthony Dombrowski, and Mr. Emil Schwegler. Dr. Deluhery is club advisor.

Next year's officers include Robert Lussier as president, Donald Mydzian as executive vice-president, Richard Panacalli, Donald Bova, Salvatore Bellomo and Bobby Warren.

 Fourth Row: Stanley Wojcik, Anthony Scime, Norman Neely, Thomas Grabowski, Thomas Reid, William Knarr, Michael Hennessy, Edward Blonski, Eric Schwarzott

The Safety Committee worked very hard this year. The year started off with the election of officers. Chosen as supervisors were Ed Gallivan and James Mecca. Ray Boreanaz and John Cholnik were selected as secretaries.

Later in the year, the following three boys were sent to the Fifth Annual Traffic Safety Conference held at the New York State Teachers College: Ronald D'Amara, Ray Latchford and James Mecca. Their report made special mention of an outstanding speaker, Mr. Lance Zavitz, safety editor from the Buffalo Evening News who spoke on "The Triangle of Safety." He was invited to give the same talk at the Safety Assembly at which the Committee was presented with its eleventh National Safety Award. This award was in turn presented to the school by James Mecca acting on behalf of the Committee.

Conscious of this anniversary year, the Safety Committee tried to extend its activities. The Safety Board for the hall was reconstructed with the assistance of Mr. King.

The Committee would like to thank its advisors, Mr. Napier and Mr. D'Arcangelo, and the entire student body for keeping the accident rate down and making the school a safer place.

The McKinley Band although smaller in size than last year is performing music of better quality. Each member has been consistently improving thereby promoting an improvement in the entire unit.

Sam Rinaldo, Larry Cleveland and Vincent Aquino are also members of the All High Band which accepts only the finest performers. A freshman who deserves special mention here is Stephen Hajdufi who began clarinet this year and already, is a member of the band. Other members showing a great deal of interest and improvement include: George Lakota, Michael Kirkpatrick and Richard Curto on Trumpet; Ronald Schuler and Roy Harriger on trombone; Stan Ross and Kenneth Kendron on drums; James Egan, Tom Ljungstrom and Tom Alessi - Clarinet; Ronald Gulino and Jack Vitello - Sax; and Dennis Worley on bass.

The McKinley band has provided music for Parent's Night in the Fall of the year, Open House, the Anniversary Celebration at State Teachers College and Graduation. The school assembly programs have always opened and closed with rousing marching music played by the band.

 Second Row: Kenneth Snyder, Thomas Bernstein, Frederick, Krempa, John Payne, Dennis Rotunno, James Barr, Julius Zebehazy, Thomas Grabowski, Robert Cunningham, William Meidenbauer

The Guidance Club at McKinley Vocational High School is composed of members from various trade groups and class levels. The main objective of the Club is to help students obtain self-improvement through organized programs.

Each year it has brought at least two outstanding speakers to school to explain to the students laws affecting teen-agers and the punishments pertaining to violation of those laws.

The officers of the Guidance Club are: President, Robert Hauptman; Vice-President, Carlos Lowell; Secretary, James Sarafin; Treasurer, Kenneth Snyder.

The Club also arranges for such other interesting activities as Armed Forces Day, Films, Bulletin Boards and several Guidance Assemblies.

While McKinley High School is not equipped to do theatrical work on any but a very small scale, the group more than makes up with its enthusiasm for deficiencies along these lines. During this past school year, there were 12 boys who engaged in this extra-curricular activity. Under the direction of Mr. Harmon, the group did some special reading appropriate to the Christmas season and they are, at present, at work on a three-act comedy, "Brother Orchid". If at all possible, this will be presented toward the end of the school year.

It is to be hoped that the future will hold some provision for staging drama because of all of the activities which "round-out" a student, experience on the stage can give him the assurance and poise he needs. In simply the mechanics of reading and memorizing lines, the drama group have individually profited and expressed their appreciation for this kind of activity.

In a vocational school, the emphasis has to be on the practical side and rightly so. However, through the years, this school has endeavored to keep up with things of a cultured nature, on the premise that actually they are just as practical. Dramatics, of course, falls in this category. We trust that more students will take advantage of the opportunities offered along these lines and that the facilities will be improved to the extent that drama will become an important part of every student's school life.

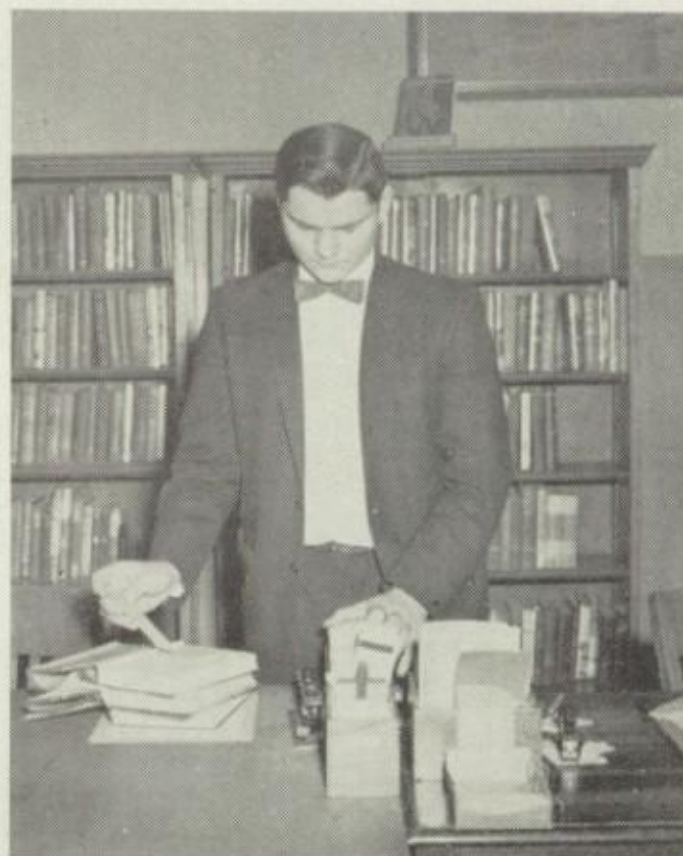

c o o o o o o o o LIBRARY o o o o o o o o o

The Library at McKinley is very fortunate in having a faithful corps of boys who cheerfully give of their time and energy to help make the library services an efficient part of McKinley. Throughout the day, boys volunteer their services during their study periods. William Strobel and Daniel Kosciuch are Seniors who have served in the Library for two years. Lawrence Neri, who left McKinley in February to join the Marines, had given his assistance for the previous year. Marvin Mironiuk, who joined the staff at the same time, continues to make himself available. John Beaman, a freshman, has brought to McKinley knowledge gained in similar service at another school. Thomas Bernstein, who has no study period, is on duty at 8:00 A.M. of every Library day.

Assistants shelve books, arrange the furniture, check books in and out and file cards in the card catalog. The whole-hearted and untiring work of this staff makes it possible for Miss Didas to serve the students more adequately on the days she is assigned to McKinley.

Second Row: Francis Ferola, Michael Piekarski

Because of the school's Fiftieth Anniversary celebration the Camera Club performed a very important service to the school this year.

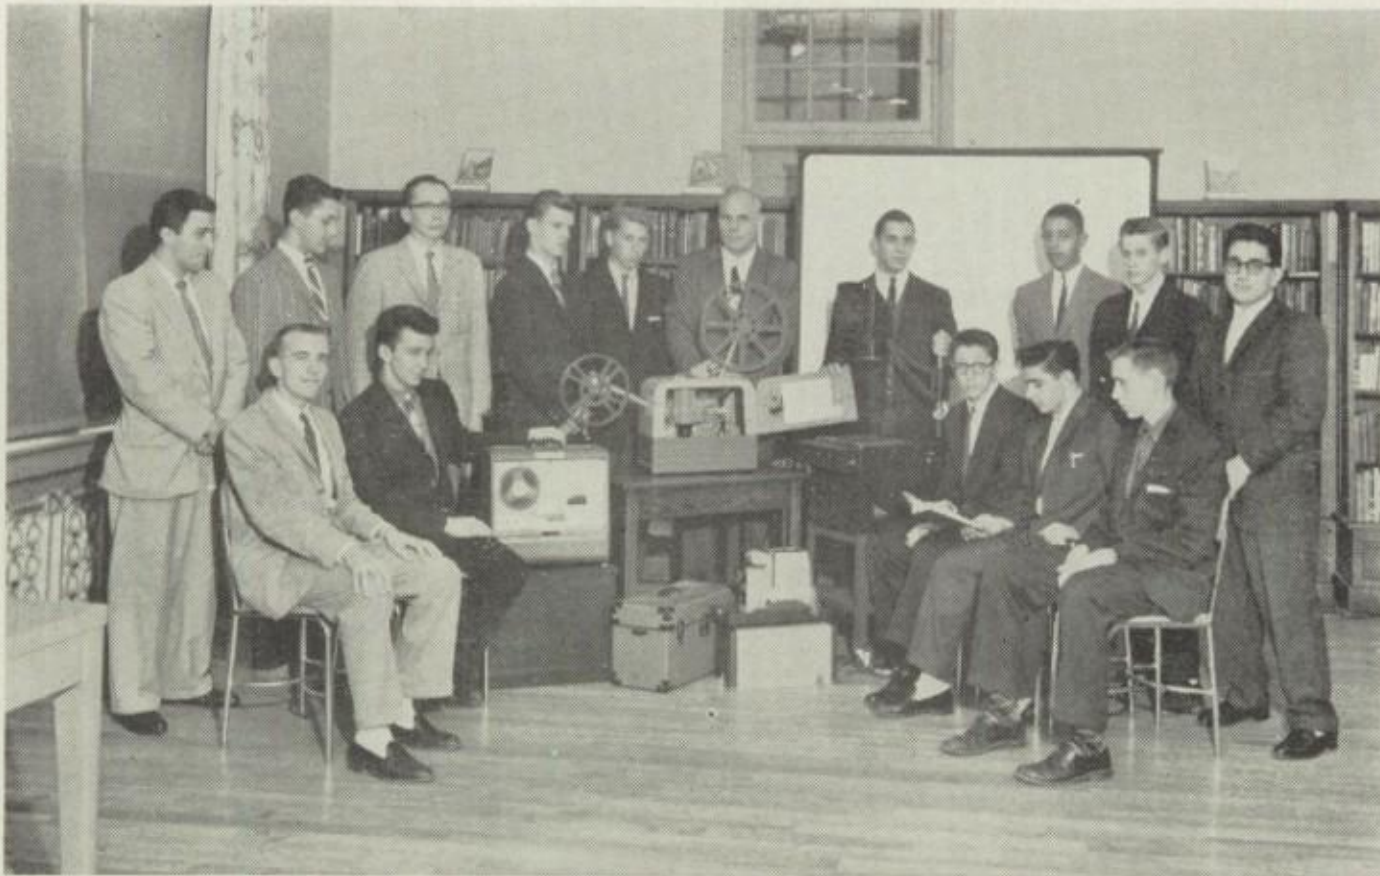

An increased budget permitted the club to take about 75% more pictures than it did last year.

Three members, Frank Tomaselli, Michael Cady, and Richard Piech attained the status of "Cameramen" and these boys took the majority of the photographs.

The school camera visited 4 grammar schools, Erie County Tech, and New York State College for Teachers, along with the regular school assignments.

Special Coverage of Open House, Anniversary Celebrations, Sporting Events, and student functions highlighted the year's activities.

PROJECTION CLUB

Second Row: Michael Anello, Robert Stamp, Robert Lummel, Carlos Lowell, Robert Hauptman, Mr. Guest, Francis Ferola, Leroy Watts, John Derylak, Sam Cali

The Projection Club has had a very active year with fifteen members sharing the work of projection and care of equipment.

This increased activity is the result of these changes. More films and other audio visual aids have been used than in previous years. Materials have been used covering most of the trades and class subjects at McKinley. These have been shown to shops or classes that could profit most from the instruction and often were shown separately for each class period. All this activity has gone on without adequate rooms for projection. Often, equipment has been transferred from room to room between periods.

More than half of the club members are seniors. They have given freely of their time over as many as four years. Their experience and ability will be missed. Naturally, this will throw added responsibility on the experienced operators for next year, and will make it possible to add new members. The successful projection club member has shown good scholarship and high responsibility for time and for equipment.

o o o o o o o CHESS CLUB o o o o o o o

Second Row: Thomas Keppel, Roger Foschio, George Bronner

The Chess Club is one of the few school activities which requires more brain power than strength or muscles. Chess is an easy game to learn and always fascinates every one who has ever played it.

This year the Chess Club started with 17 members but dwindled down to 9 members. The president is Daniel Kosciuch, who is also captain of the McKinley Chess Team. Four new members joined the chess club this year but three times that number is hoped for next fall.

So far this year the team has won two matches out of 11. The team consists of 5 players and two alternates. They are D. Kosciuch on first board, J. Ball on second, W. Strobel on third board, J. Barr on fourth board and E. Blonski on fifth. The two alternates are E. White and J. Koch. One good feature of the team is that we have had victories on every board; only we would like to have them all in one match. This year two members of the team are graduating so there will be vacancies to fill next fall when the club resumes. McKinley has the best chess equipment of all the high school in the city. We are particularly happy that this year we are wearing sweaters at all the matches. The sweaters were purchased by the school to dress up the team and help build better spirit.

Next year Mr. King and Mr. Adams would like to see a larger turnout for chess so we can have a larger choice of players from which to pick a team.

When the staff of the President re-organized last Fall, interest seemed to be at a high pitch, The task of putting out the fiftieth anniversary issue seemed to be a formidable one. Plans had been laid for an issue which was considerably larger than the customary one. This would require a commensurately greater support from advertisers and sponsors. A few boys, notably Thomas Feldmeyer and Thomas Bernstein, did make the efforts necessary to obtain this support, but the general student body did not follow their example. The Camera Club, aware of the importance of this issue, also made great efforts to provide the necessary pictures.

Members of the yearbook staff itself worked long and diligently to cope with the tremendous amount of detail involved in publication. Most of the active staff members are Juniors and Seniors; Freshmen and Sophomores are lacking. If the yearbook is to continue, replacements must be found for graduating staff members. The staff is especially anxious to enlist the aid of students with art training and camera enthusiasts who will coordinate their efforts with the Camera Club. There is always room for boys who are interested and willing to work. Next year's issue will also be an important one and we will try to maintain the high standards of the past.

The Staff would like to express thanks to Mr. Martino for his supervision of business details and to Mr. Brassaw for his help with the group pictures.

McKinley's school newspaper, the Artisan, is a mimeographed paper which is issued each month under the guidance and leadership of Mr. Dombrowski. Without his help, the Artisan would not exist.

The Artisan has been developed into a useful service to the student body. The staff meets to receive and to work on their assignments. Then they are always on the alert for interesting and informative items of news. Regular monthly features include the names of persons on the honor roll, the inquiring reporter, jokes, health hints, news reports from teachers throughout the school, record news, interviews with new teachers and outstanding students, reports on sport activities, and on miscellaneous school activities.

Members of the Artisan staff are: Michael Piekarski, editor-in-chief; reporters: James Barr, Albert Buda, Eugene Cassaro, Thomas Grabowski, Robert Hauptman, Thomas Lombardo, Richard Piech, James Sarafin, Anthony Scime, Victor Scozzaro, Daniel Suffoletta, Robert Swan, Joseph Turano, and Julius Zebehazy. The staff artist, Ronald Ziccardi, has done very well in an important position. In addition, Jim Barr and Bob Swan have helped most capably with the mimeographing.

It has been the hope of the entire staff to make the Artisan a paper of interest to everyone at school. Participation of all is invited. The staff is more than happy to receive all sorts of news items, correspondence, suggestions and criticism.

One of the problems in recent years has been the failure of Freshmen and Sophomores to join the staff. Most of the present staff members are Seniors. Their graduation in June will be a great loss. Let's hope this loss will be made up by a large response to our invitation to join the staff next year.

The three Explorer Posts of McKinley Vocational High School started the season with a picnic on Election Day, at Ellicott Creek Park. The Explorers met at school at 7:45 A.M., and the faculty advisers drove them to the park. Mr. Metz, Mr. Schmidt and Daniel Grayson were already there preparing the breakfast.

After a breakfast of pancakes and sausages there were games of baseball and touch football. Luncheon consisted of salads and coffee.

The next field trip was on December 4th. We were dismissed from school at 12:30 P.M. A chartered bus took us to the Buffalo Evening News. We were met by guides who escorted us through the old News plant. We saw editors, reporters, the composing room and the stereotype department.

Our next excursion was to the Historical Building on March 25th. We were dismissed from school at 1:30 P.M. and walked to the building. Here we saw many historical items pertaining to New York State, particularly Buffalo.

We are planning a trip to Richardson Boat Company, North Tonawanda in May.

The Bowling Club had a very promising start this year with membership of 48 bowlers. Things went well for a few weeks but the members began to lose interest and started to drop out. Because of an insufficient membership, our bowling program had to be brought to a halt. The shorthanded program for the Bowling Club made it difficult for the officers, Ed Barton and William Wagner, to collect sufficient funds to buy bowling awards for the club.

The Bowling Club is appreciative of Mr. Guderian's assistance in the organizing and supervising of the bowling clubs in the past and hope that he will continue to help in the future. We also hope to see a better turnout next year when the call for bowlers is given.

McKinley's defending champions got off to a flying start for the 1960 Cornell Cup season. In the first game, McKinley defeated Emerson 16-0. The highlights of the game were Jim Sortisio's one hit pitching performance which included 13 strike-out victims. The hitting stars were Dave Tout with 4 hits, including 2 triples, in 5 times at bat, and Carlos Lowell's triple with the bases full.

 Third Row: Daniel McPhee, Thomas Reid, Salvatore Ralabate

This year's basketball team, did not have the success it has had in the past two years. Although the team did its best, it could manage only one victory. Jerry Norman was the team's high scorer with 128 points, followed by Al Howard with

106. Norman and Bob Warren received Honorable Mention on both the Buffalo Evening News and the Buffalo Courier Express. The team will lose two Seniors, Sal Relabate and John Jurczak. Norman and Warren will also be ineligible because of their age. Mr. Keib would like to express his thanks and gratitude to all those who supported the team.

It is hoped that with more experience, a greater response, and better luck next year the Basketball team will have the success it has had in the past years.

This year's scores were as follows

McKinley 46	Kensington 52
McKinley 39	Lafayette 41
McKinley 42	Riverside 49
McKinley 27	East 34
McKinley 58	South Park 61
McKinley 48	Grover Cleveland 61

A McKinley Team, green with the exception of Larry Cleveland, managed to finish 8th in the final All-High Columbia Cross Country Run. The Macks scored 233 points. Seneca won the meet with 69 points. Among the runners were the following McKinley boys, Larry Cleveland 32nd, David Bates 38th, Paul Young 46th, Lynn Loeb 58th, Dan McPhee 59th, Robert Lussier 60th, Norm Kipler 65th, and Frank Domino 75th. All in all, 96 boys completed.

In previous triangular meets, the Macks placed as follows: second against Bennett and Emerson, third, against Seneca and South Park, second against Burgard and Lafayette and, finally, second, against Kensington and Riverside.

With seven of the eight all-high runners returning, the prospects for a most successful season next year are promising.

Our record for this past football season was one win and five losses. We played against some good teams in Grover Cleveland, Riverside and Emerson in our league. Burgard, our opponent from the other league, also proved to be a formidable team.

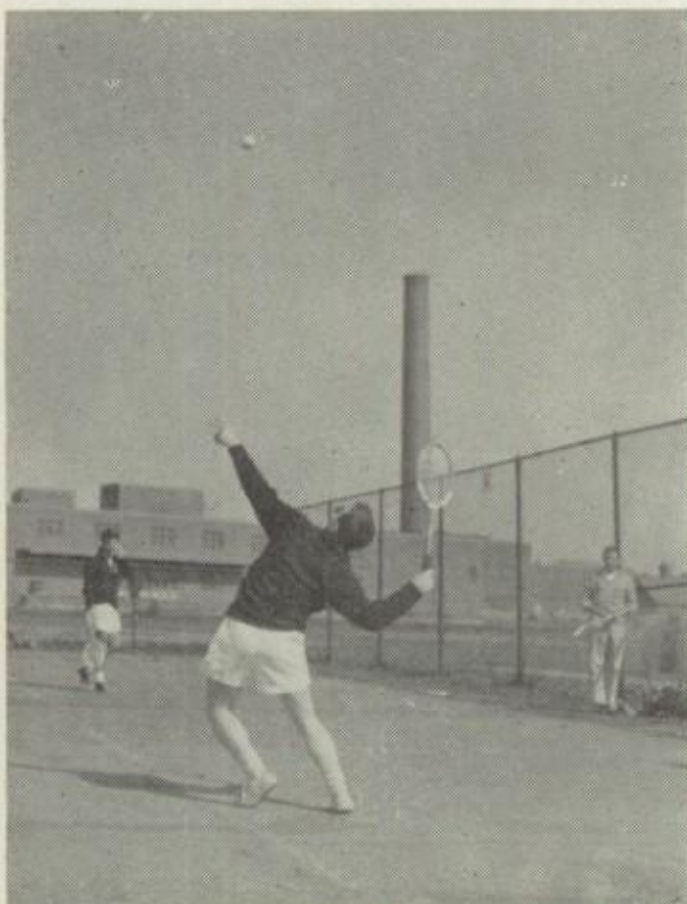

McKinley's one win was against Lafayette. The final score of this game was 12-6.

The last game of the season was against South Park which we lost by a score of 6-2. This game turned out to be reversal of the game in the previous year. A year ago we scored the touch-down and South Park the two points.

Twenty-one candidates signed up for this sport. This is the greatest number since tennis was organized at McKinley a few years ago. This encouraging factor helped to offset the loss of most of last year's veterans.

Practice was held at the MacMillan courts in Delaware Park. Attendance was faithful and interest in the game was high. The desire to win, made up, in some measure, for lack of experience.

This year's captain is James Mikulec and the Manager is Robert Hauptman.

 Fourth Row: Tommy Merriweather, Ivan Baker, Bobby Warren

At this writing the potential of the McKinley Track Team has not been tested. However, an improvement over last year is expected. Last year the team scored no points in the final All-High Meet. This year it appears that veterans, Larry Cleveland in the mile, Paul Young in the 880, Ivan Baker in the high jump, and John Hallnan in the sprints are potential point getters. Among the new comers with promise are: Frank Domino in the pole vault, Thomas Merriweather in the hurdles, Bernard Sykes in the 440, and Peter DiLauro in the shot put.

Other boys on the squad have the ability to make this a most successful year for the McKinley Track Team. However, this success will depend upon the consistent effort of the boys to improve their skills in practice and trial runs.
